Report Highlights:

OAA Beijing's Welcome and Farewell Reception was held on July 7th, 2010. Over 285 guests including Ministers, Vice Ministers, and working level contacts from Ministry of Agriculture (MOA), Administration for Quality Supervision Inspection and Quarantine (AQSIQ), Ministry of Commerce (MOFCOM), National Development and Reform Commission (NDRC), and Ministry of Health (MOH). Guests also include agricultural trade contacts (cooperators) in China, agricultural attaches from other foreign embassies in Beijing, and Embassy colleagues. The Ambassador attended the reception and addressed efforts strengthen to Sino-U.S. bilateral relationship on agriculture development.

General Information:

This activity was funded under the Country Strategy Support Fund (CSSF).

Activity Code and Name: OAA Beijing Welcome and Farewell Reception
Activity dates: July 7, 2010
City/Country: Beijing, China

Objective:

- Enhance mutual trust and strengthen relationship between China's government officials and OAA office.
- Improve understanding of Sino-U.S. Agricultural import and export policy by connecting U.S. cooperators and traders with government officials.
- Renew and strengthen the connection between critical government contacts and the OAA.
- Welcome new Minister-Counselor Scott Sindelar's arrival at post and did farewell to three attaches: Mark Petry, Chanda Beckman, and Eric Trachtenberg.

Marketing: Constraints and Opportunities

This activity was designed to address the following constraints that limit the OAA effectiveness in promoting U.S. exports:

- Lack of connections between OAA Beijing's new staff and existing contacts.

The activity also explored new opportunities to:

- Create a more positive image of the United States and U.S. agriculture by holding this event in Beijing.
- Enable U.S. cooperators to meet present and potential trade contacts.
- Introduce new staff to contacts and set up new bilateral dialogues and relationship between them.

Expected Results

- Develop and strengthen OAA contacts in Beijing.
- A more positive image of the United States and its agricultural sector.
- Knowing more VIP contacts and set up new relationships.

Actual Results and Outcomes:

The event had these results.

- The event had over 285 guests including U.S. exporters, Chinese importers/wholesalers/distributors/retailers, Chinese government and industry representatives.
- The ambassador addressed efforts of agricultural development which would strengthen and improve people's confidence in marketing.
- While the majority of the guests were OAA Beijing's existing contacts, new contacts attended as well. For example, the event allowed the OAA to make new media contacts, meet more industry association representatives, and connect with new traders. They responded very positively to the event and expressed a strong interest in having future communications and cooperation with the OAA.
- The reception served as a perfect opportunity to introduce new OAA staff to office contacts and to establish a working relationship with them. Note: OAA Beijing had a large personnel change in 2010. All attaches except one were new.
- The event provided a platform where U.S. exporters and cooperators were linked to major Chinese government officials.

Recommendations/Follow up:

The OAA followed up with guests for feedback – all of whom responded very positively. They expressed a strong desire to expand their relationship with the office and appreciate the great assistance and respect they receive from the OAA.

In the future, we plan to increase the effectiveness of these kinds of events by preparing name tags for each guest to help them identify potential business partners. Although we used some U.S.-sourced products such as wine and ice cream, we hope to expand this number more aggressively in the future.
